As Others See Them

SHE THAT HESITATES

By Harris Dickson

A tale which keeps the sympathies of the reader at white heat.—Boston Transcript.

By the Author of "The Black Wolf's Breed"

Here is a romance to sit up into the wee sma' hours to read.—Minneapolis Journal.

SHE THAT HESITATES

By Harris Dickson

No writer of to-day has a stronger hold on the elements of the romantic and the picturesque than Harris Dickson.—Scranton Republican.

SHE THAT HESITATES

By the Author of "The Black Wolf's Breed"

There is a continuous, stirring movement in this story which does not flag from start to finish.—Washington Post.

SHE THAT HESITATES

By Harris Dickson

The story carries the reader along in a growing intensity of interest which culminates with the last paragraph.—The Interior.

SHE THAT HESITATES

By the Author of "The Black Wolf's Breed"

If an interesting book is wanted, one that must be read from cover to cover and not put down until "finis" is seen, "She that Hesitates" should be selected. Mr. Dickson has drawn the heroine with such a master hand that it would not be surprising if one looked up from the pages and found her in plain sight. It is altogether as charming a tale as one would care to meet any day.—Louisville Post.

THE TORCH

By the Author of "The Fighting Bishop"

Strikes a new note in the field of fiction.—Newark Advertiser.

THE TORCH

By Herbert M. Hopkins

The book will be the cause of endless discussion.—Oakland Tribune.

THE TORCH

By the Author of "The Fighting Bishop"

The book is one to be reckoned with.—Chicago Daily News.

THE TORCH

By Herbert M. Hopkins

"The Torch" is a very unusual book, one that will appeal to every man who has been to college or who is in any way interested in college life.—Columbus Dispatch.

THE TORCH

By the Author of "The Fighting Bishop"

Mr. Hopkins has succeeded in getting a broader, more kaleidoscopic point of view than any of his predecessors. On every page one feels the crowding of masses of men and women, and the energy and force of humanity.—Kansas City Journal.

THE TORCH

By Herbert M. Hopkins

It is not only a finely-told story, but centers about an entirely new theme. It is a vivid presentation of the effect of commercial influences on the great, great source of moral strength for our nation—the universities. The problems as to whether higher education can go hand in hand with modern business methods is a most vital one, and Mr. Hopkins' treatment of it in the guise of fiction is not only likely to arouse discussion, but also to set readers wondering whether he has not taken some people from real life and set them in motion for the ends of his story.—Nashville American.

Paul Leicester Ford

A BEAUTIFUL HOLIDAY BOOK

Specimen Illustration Reduced

Mr. FORD, author of

Wanted:
A Matchmaker,

Wanted:
A Chaperon,

etc., produced many well known successful literary achievements, but in none has his ability shown itself so delightfully and convincingly as in this new story of an unconventional love-making in New York.

The volume is beautifully illustrated, printed and bound in excellent taste, and will doubtless be the most popular gift-book of the year.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready Dr. Edward Everett Hale's "New England History in Ballads;" a new popular edition of Mary Devereux's favorite romance, "From Kingdom to Colony;" the Handy Library Edition of George Eliot's Works in ten volumes, and a new series of reprints, the Handy Volume Cambridge Classics, comprising eleven volumes of the world's best books.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY has in press a posthumous volume entitled "Pictures from Pilgrim's Progress," by the late C. H. Spurgeon, the celebrated preacher. The introduction has been written by Thomas Spurgeon, successor to his father's pulpit, and in it is revealed the fact that the forthcoming addresses were delivered at Monday evening prayer meetings. The author had intended to publish them, for he had begun to edit them.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready a new book by the author of "Son," etc., entitled "Dennis Foggarty," by Lord Gilhooley; "Incomparable Bellairs," a new story by Agnes and Egerton Castle, a sprightly romance in which many of the old friends that appeared in "The Bath Comedy" are introduced again; "Friendship, the Good and Perfect Gift," an essay, by Ruth Ogden (Mrs. Charles W. Ide;) also, a lively book for boys and girls, by Anne Helena Woodruff, entitled "Betty and Bob," the principal interest in which centres in its portrayal of country life.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just ready for the holiday season a new volume of poems, by James Whitcomb Riley, entitled "His Pa's Romance," from the initial poem, which is a delightful account of a small boy of the courtship of his father and mother, with illustrations by Will Vawter and a new portrait of Mr. Riley by John Cecil Clay; Longfellow's "The Courtship of Miles Standish," elaborately illustrated by Howard Chandler Christy, who has designed forty full-page illustrations which are reproduced partly in colors and partly in black and white; also, two new books for children by the author of "The Wizard of Oz," entitled "The Enchanted Island of Yew" and "The Magical Monarch of Mo," with illustrations in color by well-known artists.

D. APPLETON & Co. have now ready their books for young people. "Weatherby's Inn-ing," by Ralph Henry Barbour, is a story of college life and baseball, with illustrations in color by C. M. Relyea; "The Giant of Three Wars," by James Barnes, tells the life story of General Winfield Scott; "Brother Jonathan, or, the Alarm Post in the Cedars," by Hezekiah Butterworth, is a tale of early Connecticut; and "The Spy of Yorktown," by William O. Stoddard, tells the story of the British invasion of Virginia under Benedict Arnold. For girls especially are "At Aunt Anna's," by Marion Ames Taggart; also, "Three Graces," by Gabrielle E. Jackson, a story of girls of boarding-school life. For very young children is "Mickey of the Alley and Other Youngsters," by Kate Dickinson Sweetser, with illustrations by George Alfred Williams. They will publish shortly in their Business Series a work on "The Modern Bank," by Amos K. Fiske. The volume will be illustrated.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

It was thought at first that the Countess Bismarck had destroyed her husband's letters from the seat of war because he had criticized the French too freely. But after her death these letters were found by themselves in a special casket. They were full of little details relating chiefly to personal comforts, and telling much of his two sons who took active part in the war. There is an introduction by Walter Littlefield of New York City.

Fifteen years have passed since Dr. Goode's work was first published. It has been some years out of print. The work was a summary of the observations and reports of a large corps of experts in ichthyology as well as fisheries and economics originally employed by the Census Bureau. It contained a fund of information that could not be found in any other work accessible to the general public, and it still holds that place. Nevertheless, in the lapse of time, many changes had been made in the nomenclature of the species, not a few species had been added, and several important groups of fishes that had been neglected required attention. Besides the corrections of small errors and the insertion of new illustrations, new chapters have been included on the white-fishes, the smelts and their relatives, the eel and its kin, and the sturgeons. The work has altogether been revised and brought up to date.

Some years ago the author became interested in the wonderful system of the all-around physical training that has made the Japanese, small people though they are, the greatest athletes and the happiest of the world's people. This system is known as jiu-jitsu. Mr. Hancock has devoted much of his time during the past seven years to a thorough study of all its principles. In this volume he explains it in detail. He gives descriptions of athletic feats that will properly develop each part of the body, and explains the tricks of defence and attack. He gives also the Japanese principles of diet, clothing, bathing, and general good and rational living.

The death of his father, a wound in his head and the thought that his fiancée has proved untrue affects the mind of the hero. He endeavors first to re-adjust the world, then he determines to destroy it. The book is given up to his wild ravings. At the end he comes to reason. The book has led to much discussion, as it is most ingeniously told and the insanity of the hero is very puzzling.

"Disraeli the man—Disraeli as son, brother, husband, friend—is the theme of this book. It is an informal study of temperament; in its way, and in his own words, "A psychological romance." A record of his public acts—not here attempted, except so far as those acts illustrate his personality—would be nothing short of a history of the reign of Victoria. . . . What I have striven to make coincident is the motive that informed the hand—not the hand of an automaton."—Preface.

The letters from which the following selections have been made were sent daily from Paris during the years 1864 to 1870, by Mr. Peat, attaché au cabinet du ministre de l'intérieur and later attaché au conseil d'état, who died from the effects of an accident during the early days of the siege of Paris. They were published in the Morning Star, a daily London paper. As attaché Mr. North Peat saw every morning the telegrams which passed through the Home Office, and thus was enabled to test the accuracy of current reports. He betrayed no confidence, as he had the permission of the French government to use his information as he did. The letters are a selection of about one-twelfth of the original number, and they range over the political and social life of Paris during the few years stated.

Aims to present to the student a minimum of rhetorical theory, and a maximum of practical illustrations and exercises. These are chosen from classics with which he is familiar, and from other good books, in which, it is hoped, his interest may be aroused. The advantage of presenting the theory briefly is that the student can grasp a few principles accompanied with much illustration better than he can understand these principles when they are put before him in expanded form with detailed discussion.

A detective story. The plot turns upon the murder of an old millionaire, who is found at his desk down town, dead, with a knife sticking in his throat. The discoverer of the body is a trusted clerk who is obviously innocent, but is forced to admit, from a sense of duty, that the old man's daughter was with him behind closed doors, just before the murder. Everything seems to point to Miss Holladay's guilt, especially as she refuses to explain where she was at the moment in which her father met his death. The story is most ingeniously worked out.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 5, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

OBJECTIONABLE SUBSCRIPTION BOOK PUBLISHING METHODS.

THE failure of the greater portion of the collection of "limited" editions recently offered for sale at auction in Philadelphia to realize much more than fifteen cents on the dollar, surprised no one but the hunters after these showy and widely-puffed book treasures, and these will not profit much by the experience. So long as opportunities are afforded in this world to persons of limited intellectual capacity to acquire the means to gratify their desire to "show off," so long will others who are not particular in their methods of prosecuting their business have an opportunity to cater to the "snobbishness of the expensive"—that is, to persons who are ready to pay exorbitant prices for a thing that is represented to be "exclusive," it matters not whether it is an opera seat, a gown, a milliner's "creation," or a so-called "limited" edition of a book. As the New York Evening Post, commenting on the subject, correctly puts it, "the buyers of these 'limited' editions actually think they are getting the best, simply because they pay three or four times—in some cases even ten times—the price of the standard editions. The delusion lies in the mistaken belief that any inherently worthless thing acquires value because it is found in only a few examples."

Most of the pretentious reprints represented in the sale in question, were not worth even the so-called cost of manufacture, as is proven by the fact that sets of Scott and Dumas, for example, that had cost $100 a volume sold for ten dollars. Editions superior to these in every respect may be had any time in any well-appointed bookstore for much less.

The Evening Post, however, confuses terms when it says that "the sale of these expensive editions is a bit of jobbery between publishers and booksellers on the strength of the buyer's ignorance or extravagance." In the sale of these editions the bookseller rarely, if ever, takes a part, the books being manufactured by subscription book makers who take every imaginable precaution to keep them out of the bookstores, and who act exclusively through itinerant canvassers. Unfortunately, the operations of these representatives frequently bring reproach upon the honorable profession of bookselling; being sine loci they are for the greater part irresponsible, while their principals in case of any untoward happening are generally protected by carefully-worded contracts which their victims sign in almost every case unread.

Nor will any bookseller, jealous of his reputation for fair dealing, care to become a party in the sale of many of these books that are issued in "limited" editions under a misapprehension—in some cases even through a deliberate misrepresentation—of the term, the identical plates serving for three or more "limited" editions at prices ranging from $10 the volume to $1.50 a volume, the latter price, very likely in many cases, representing more correctly the true value of the book than the former. There is no objection to the issue of more than one impression from the same plates in different styles at different prices, provided the intention of the publisher is made clear in his first announcement; but certain publishers of subscription books deliberately avoid making such announcements, preferring that their patrons should be left under a wrong impression, and then proceeding to manufacture "limited" editions from the same plates ad libitum. With such methods no reputable merchant can have any sympathy, and it becomes his duty to "nail the lie" on every opportunity that presents itself.

It is to be hoped that the Boston booktrade will to the end adhere to its resolution to obtain a definite decision from the courts of last resort as to their right to keep in stock and to sell under certain restrictions the works of such masters of the old world literature as Boccaccio and Rabelais. Heretofore, when such cases have come before local justices, the question went begging, either because the accused was too poor to defend himself or because the judge did not consider that he was called upon to pass judgment on the merits of the books that came before him. It would almost seem, as has been alleged, that the animus of the persecution of the Boston booksellers in this case is to obtain a "rake-off" on the fines rather than to protect the morals of the community. Nevertheless, now that the question has been raised it becomes the duty of even those most remotely affected to lend their aid in settling it for all time. In Massachusetts even the book collector is concerned in this matter, because the statute of the commonwealth forbids not only the selling but having in possession obscene books; and if the court holds that the writings of Boccaccio and Rabelais must be so classed, the Boston Globe insists that the Society that caused the arrest of the booksellers for selling the books in question must logically also arrest those citizens who have these books in their possession. This has been stigmatized by another paper as absurd; but is it? or do they serve in Massachusetts one sauce for the goose and another for the gander?

CRUSADE AGAINST BOCCACCIO AND RABELAIS.

THE Watch and Ward Society of Boston in "a spasm of prudery" last week began a campaign against four prominent booksellers for selling the "Decameron" and the works of Rabelais.

The agitation on the part of the Watch and Ward Society began with the arrest of the proprietor of the Desmond Publishing Company, of 144 High Street, Boston, who through subscription agents and circulars offered complete editions of the works of Boccaccio and Rabelais in twelve volumes, at $42. Mr. Desmond was arrested on November 7 and ten days later was fined $250 for having in his possession for the purpose of sale the books named. He appealed.

After the trial of Mr. Desmond the members of the Boston Watch and Ward Society were advised that copies of the Desmond editions could be bought in any bookstore in Boston. This, however, did not prove true, though an agent of the society succeeded in obtaining an old copy of the works of Rabelais at Colesworthy's, a set of the five volume edition of Rabelais, published by Gibbings & Co., of London, at the Old Corner Bookstore, and a second-hand copy of the "Decameron" at Burnham's. In each case the clerk who sold the books was arrested.

Naturally, this action has aroused great indignation among the booksellers, and prompt action has been taken to bring the matter to an issue, and to have the question decided definitely whether it is criminal to possess and to sell to adults works of this character, and to obtain a decision from the highest tribunal in Massachusetts as to what constitutes an immoral and obscene book. A number of prominent men, among them several clergymen and lawyers, have expressed their indignation at the action of the Watch and Ward Society, and one of the best criminal lawyers in Boston has volunteered to defend one of the arrested clerks free of all costs. The first of the cases will come up for trial next Tuesday and the result will be watched with great interest by the booktrade everywhere.

The following was circulated and signed on November 28:

"We, the undersigned, agree to give the amount opposite our names to carry the cases to the Supreme Court of the four respectable booksellers who were arrested for selling copies of the old classics, "Decameron," "Hep-tameron" and Rabelais. We consider it an outrage that these men were arrested like common criminals before the Supreme Court had decided whether the books were immoral.

"In case the money raised is more than is used for the fines or costs, the amount left over shall be divided pro rata, according to the amounts given. We feel that the booksellers should 'stand together' in this matter, or they may 'hang separately.' The money, when needed, is to be paid to a treasurer elected by the booksellers.

"Many of the above will double their subscriptions if necessary."

It is not proposed by the booksellers that these funds will be used simply in the procuring of legal aid. As the booksellers feel that the case against the four men arrested is a case against all of them, they have pooled their interests to get an understanding for the future as to what books may be considered legitimate. Letters have been written to prominent libraries all over the country, asking librarians if the books singled out by the Watch and Ward Society are generally considered immoral and obscene.

PAPER MILLS CLOSE.

THE INTERNATIONAL PAPER Co., operating twenty-eight mills in New York and New England, has announced a suspension of operations at all points for one week. The suspension is attributed to trade conditions.

In New England, however, unusually low water in mill streams practically forced the mill owners to stop machinery. Still, it is said that the managers were willing to take advantage of these conditions to reduce stock in the storehouses, which contain thousands of tons of finished paper ready for the markets.

There are four large paper companies in Maine independent of the International Company, and they, too, have been compelled to suspend work on account of low water.

EXHIBIT OF FAMOUS BINDINGS AT SCRIBNER'S.

AN exhibition which should attract more than ordinary interest is now open at Charles Scribner's Sons. It is remarkable for its specimens of historical and famous bindings belonging to great personages of the famous past. In many instances the bindings are the handiwork of the greatest masters of bibliopgraphy.

The exhibition includes books from the libraries of Francis I., Henry II., Henry III., Louis XIV., Louis XV., Louis XVIII., Kings of France; Philip the IV. of Spain, Velasquez's patron, Catherine the Great of Russia, Christine of Sweden; many of the great Princes and Princesses, Marguerite de Savoy, Prince de Conde, "Le Grand Dauphin," only son of Louis XIV., Madame Adelaide, Madame Victoire, Duchess de Berri; Queens like Anne of Austria, Marguerite de Valois, Queen Charlotte of England and Marie Leczinska; Popes Clement X., Pius V., Sixtus V., Gregory XIII., Innocent XI., Julius III., and Clement XI.; Cardinals Mazarin, Fleury, and Granvelle; famous ladies of the court, Madame de Pompadour, Madame de Montespan, and Madame du Barry; great book-collectors like de Thou and Count d'Hoyrn; and persons as widely differentiated as Voltaire and Milton, Thomas Hobbes of the "Leviathan" and La Tour d'Auvergne, and many others.

The bindings include representative specimens of the art of Nicolas and Clovis Eve, Le Gascon, Derome and Padeloup; silver and enamel work of the 16th century and exquisite silver filigree of the 18th century, embroidered bindings from both England and France, a 15th century "chained book" from the Monastery at Wurzburg with the chain and leather-covered oaken boards still intact; and the work of many unknown but decidedly meritorious binders, coming down in point of time to Simier, binder to Louis XVIII., in the nineteenth century.

There are many masterpieces of printing from the days of the Aldi in Venice to the greatest of the 18th century French productions; some especially printed for kingly use on fine vellum; as well as manuscripts done for Kings and Queens and Royal Princes, including the work of those most eminent calligraphers (rivals for the supreme position) Estienne Darnoiselet and Nicolas du Jary. The Scribners have prepared a catalogue of ninety-nine of the rarer books, illustrated with reproductions of thirty of the more notable bindings.

TO DETERMINE THE ORIGIN OF BIBLE VERSIONS.

To refute the statement of the rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Irvington, N. Y., that "the Protestant Bible goes back only to the time of Henry VIII. of England," Miss Helen Gould has offered prizes aggregating $1750 for essays on the Protestant and Roman Catholic versions of the Bible.

The double topic for the essays will be the "Origin and History of the Version of the Bible Approved by the Roman Catholic Church" and the "Origin and History of the American Revised Version of the English Bible."

This offer is made through the Bible Teachers' Training School, and is open to the world, no matter what the religious faith of the essayist happens to be. Not even the followers of Confucius are excluded. The first prize is fixed at $1000, the second at $500 and the third at $250. All essays must be mailed not later than March 1, 1904, and the result will be announced by a committee, of which Dr. White, president of the Bible Teachers' School, is a member, a few days after all the essays are received by Dr. White.

It is stated for Miss Gould that she has no desire to start a controversy, but that her offer is prompted because she has found that there is general ignorance concerning the origin of the two versions of the Bible.

ENGLISH CUSTOMS REGULATIONS RE IMPRINT ON IMPORTED BOOKS.

THE London Publishers' Circular says that "thanks to the action of the [English] Publishers' Association, which took up cases reported to it by William Heinemann and Gay & Bird, (in which books printed abroad had been detained at the Custom House,) the important question of the imprint on imported books has been much simplified.

"It has now been definitely decided by the Commissioners of H. M. Customs that in the case of all books bearing the name of a publisher in the United Kingdom, an imprint or other indication of the country of production, such as 'Printed in America,' etc., can be placed:

- "(1) On the title-page;
- "(2) On the back of the title-page, or
- "(3) At the end of the book; and will be accepted as a sufficient indication of foreign origin."

To make the matter quite clear—and it is of great importance to American, Continental and other printers and publishers, as well as to English publishers who import books—the Publishers' Circular prints the following copies of the letters to the secretary of the English Publishers' Association from the commissioners:

CUSTOM HOUSE, London.
June 27, 1903.

With reference to your letter of March 24 last and previous correspondence, in regard to the question as to where, on books printed abroad and imported into the United Kingdom, the imprint or indication of the country in which they were printed should appear, so as to classify the requirements of the 16th Section of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, I am directed by the Commissioners of his Majesty's Customs to state that the subject has again been under careful consideration by them, and, as regards such importations in future, they have decided as follows:

- (1) When the name of a publisher or bookseller in the United Kingdom is on the title-page only, or (2) on the title-page and also on the front of the cover of the book, the Commissioners will accept the imprint or indication of the country of production, such as "Printed in Holland" &c., as the case may be, on the title-page or on the back of it, as sufficient to comply with the provisions of the Act;

- (3) When the name of the publisher or bookseller in the United Kingdom is only on the front cover of the book and not on a title-page (as is frequently the case with toy books for children, &c.), or (4) When the name, &c. is on the front and back covers of the book, and not on a title-page, the Commissioners will require the indication of the country of production, such as "Printed in Holland" &c., to be on the front of the cover.

In either of the above alternative instances, the said indication of the country in which the books are printed must appear in legible and conspicuous characters.

JOHN GATLEY.

CUSTOM HOUSE, London. }
August 11, 1903. }

I am directed by the Commissioners of his Majesty's Customs to inform you, in reply to your further letter of the 1st instant, that they have again considered the question of imprint on imported books and advertising to the letter from this Department of November 23, 1897, No. 15430, the Commissioners will be prepared to accept, as sufficient qualification under the provisions of the Merchandise Marks Act, an imprint upon the last page of the book, provided it is not inserted upon a fly leaf which could be easily removed without detriment to the book itself.

R. HENDERSON.

THE BEST-SELLING SIX BOOKS OCTOBER-NOVEMBER.

THE six books that sold best in order of demand, between October and November, according to The Bookman, are:

	POINTS.
1. The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come. Fox. Scribner.....	205
2. The Call of the Wild. London. Macmillan.....	91
3. Rebecca. Wiggin. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.....	69
4. The One Woman. Dixon. Doubleday, Page & Co.....	65
5. Adventures of Gerard. Doyle. McClure, Phillips & Co.....	61
6. The Sherrods. McCutcheon. Dodd, Mead & Co.....	60

WHAT ENGLISHMEN READ.

ACCORDING to The Book Monthly, the books that have sold best in the order of demand at the English bookshops during November are:

"The Life of Gladstone," by John Morley.
"The Five Nations," by Rudyard Kipling.
"The Heart of Rome," by F. Marion Crawford.
"The Long Night," by Stanley Weyman.
"Hetty Wesley," by A. T. Quiller-Couch.
"Rachel Marr," by Morley Roberts.
"The Yellow Van," by Richard Whiteing.
"The Ambassadors," by Henry James.

A NEW HISTORICAL SERIES.

A. S. BARNES & Co. are undertaking an important series of books relating to American history written by the participants and by some of the most famous explorers of the West. This series will render accessible some of the most important sources of American history particularly the history of the West, but unlike many sources it will have a popular character and will prove of immediate interest to general readers. The great interest in Western history which has been quickened by the approach of the Louisiana Purchase Celebration and the increased recognition of the importance of Lewis and Clark's Expedition gives unusual importance to the announcement that this series will contain a complete edition of the Lewis and Clark Journals, published in a convenient form and at a very moderate price. It will be in three small twelvemo volumes, will be accompanied by photogravure portraits and maps. A little later they will present a popular edition of the famous "Voyages from Montreal, on the River St. Lawrence, through the Continent of North America to the Frozen and Pacific Oceans," (1789-1793,) by Alexander MacKenzie, who was the first to cross the Continent in the North. They will bring out at once a fascinating historical narrative which has never been reprinted before in the "Journal of Voyages and Travels in the Interior of North America," by David William Harmon. Harmon, who was an officer of the famous North West Fur Company, began his adventures in 1800 and wrote his journal from day to day while living among the primitive Indians of the Northwest and the country beyond the Rocky Mountains. His contemporary accounts of Indian life and of peculiar interest and the quaintness and frankness of his style and the number of adventurous experiences which he recounts invest his book with a remarkable degree of general interest.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

TO PROHIBIT THE REPRODUCTION ON AUTOMATIC MACHINES OF COPYRIGHT MUSIC.

STEPS have been taken to amend the copyright law so as to prohibit the reproduction on automatic playing devices of any kind whatsoever of musical compositions, the owners of which have complied with the requirements of the statutes. The law as it now stands specifically protects the sale of sheet music, but it is contended the scope of the measure is framed along lines altogether too narrow to meet the exigencies and developments of the musical art, or the possibilities of self-playing instruments in their relations to the productions of genius as well as of trade interests.

AUTHORS' RIGHTS IN SERIAL PUBLICATION.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS has recently decided in the case of F. G. Aflalo vs. Lawrence Bullen, that when an author has contributed to a periodical he parts with the copyright to the proprietor, in the absence of any saving stipulation. It has been generally assumed, and in England the lower courts upheld the contention, that the author merely sold the serial rights; but from now onward authors will be dependent on editors for permission to reprint, unless an agreement reserves the rights of reprinting in book form.

COMMUNICATIONS.

POINTERS FOR PUBLISHERS.

BISMARCK, N. Dak., Nov. 14, 1903.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: I wish publishers could see some things as I view them, from the point of the retailer. One of the ideas I would advance is that some of the large expenditures made in advertising new fiction could profitably be used in supplying cuts to those of the retail trade who could show that they were properly used. I am a great believer in cuts for newspaper and magazine advertising; most of the announcements of new books are made with cuts, pictures of the author, etc. I have written several times to some of the leading publishers and offered to pay for cuts, but up to date have received but scant encouragement in this direction. In your last issue there is a full-page ad. that would look nice in any paper—of a kind that could be used in country advertising and that would attract attention. I know such a cut would in my own business sell a number of copies of those particular books; but my past experience with other publishers leads me to the conclusion that it would not be sent me if requested.

Another thing: Were I in the publishing business I would send prepared newspaper copy for advertising books to those retail dealers who would use same. The average country dealer thinks he has no time to write a catchy ad., and in a number of instances he lacks the technical knowledge of how to do so. Local advertising like this would cost the publisher nothing and I think would do all concerned much good. Because the average publisher is not in direct correspondence with retailers is no sign that the seller is not doing business with that publisher's books. The western retailer finds it most convenient to go to his jobber, rather than secure the different lines from the main houses. The writer this day ordered 500 modern copyrights, not one from the publishers. Publishers should keep in touch with the retailer, even if his name is not on the ledger.

OBITUARY.

AUGUSTUS FLAGG.

AUGUSTUS FLAGG who was connected with the firm of Little, Brown & Co. for nearly half a century—for thirty-seven years of that period as a member of the firm—died on November 29 at the advanced age of eighty-six. Mr. Flagg was born in Worcester, Mass., January 17, 1818, and as a boy was apprenticed to Clarendon Harris a well-known bookseller of his native town. When he became of age, having become a well-trained bookseller, he looked about for a wider field than Worcester in those days afforded. Fortified with flattering recommendations from his employer and friends, he went to Boston to interview the trade, without however succeeding in finding employment. Among the firms upon whom Mr. Flagg called was that of Little & Brown who had only the year before succeeded to the firm of Hilliard, Gray, Little & Wilkins, at the very stand where the firm of Little, Brown & Co. now conducts business, at 254 Washington Street. Although favorably impressed with the young candidate, they were unable to make an opening for him, and Mr. Flagg proceeded to New York. After a long search for work here he obtained a position in the bookstore of Robinson & Franklin where he had as a fellow clerk the late George A. Leavitt, afterwards head of the well-known auction house. After a fortnight's service with Robinson & Franklin, Mr. Flagg received word from Mr. James Brown that his firm wanted him to come on to Boston immediately to fill a position of some importance, a call that Mr. Flagg was not slow in accepting. This was in 1838. Nine years later Mr. Flagg was admitted as a partner and the firm name then became Little, Brown & Co. Mr. Flagg had charge of the foreign department and made frequent visits to Europe to make purchases of fine editions of books for his firm. When Mr. Charles C. Little died in 1869, Mr. Flagg became the senior partner, his associates at different periods being Benjamin S. Heywood, William J. Parsons, Henry T. Miles, John Bartlett, Thomas W. Deland and his brother, George Flagg, all of whom long since retired—Mr. Deland dying in harness. In 1884, still in the vigor of his life Mr. Flagg retired from the active cares of the business which has since been carried forward and developed by John Murray Brown and James P. Brown, sons of James Brown, Charles W. Allen, Hulings C. Brown and James W. McIntyre. Mr. Flagg in his day stood at the head of his profession, well informed in all its details. Broadened by culture and travel, he was a welcome and honored guest at every gathering of the trade here and abroad.

OBITUARY NOTES.

CHARLES DUPEE BLAKE, the composer of "Rock-a-Bye Baby," "Marguerite," and other popular songs, died in Brookline, Mass., November 23, aged fifty-seven.

MRS. LOUISA PARR, novelist, died at Kensington November 2. In 1870 she published her first novel, "Dorothy Fox," and since then nine other stories have come from her pen.

HARLAN PAGE HUBBARD, compiler and publisher of "Hubbard's Newspaper Directory," and widely known in the advertising world, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., December 1. He was born at Deep River, Conn., December 29, 1845.

HEART PEASE DANKS, composer of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and a number of other popular airs, died suddenly and alone in a Philadelphia lodging house, on November 20. Mr. Danks was born in New Haven, Conn., April 6, 1834. He composed the song by which he was made famous, in 1858.

MRS. HARRIET HUBBARD AYER, author of "How to Be Beautiful," etc., died in New York City, November 25. Mrs. Ayer was born in Chicago in 1854. She was raised in luxury and early married a man of considerable wealth who after the Chicago fire lost his fortune. Mrs. Ayer gave up her home and belongings to satisfy her husband's creditors and came to New York where she established herself in business and earned a fortune. In 1894 she joined the editorial staff of the New York World, a position she retained until her death.

WE note with regret the death of Paul Jules Armand Mame, the well-known publisher of Tours, in his seventieth year. M. Mame, who has been ill for some time, died at his country house at Touches, in the commune of La Savonnière. The great business, one of the most extensive of its kind in France, was founded about a century ago by the grandfather of the late M. Mame, but his father, Alfred Henri Mame, developed the concern from a comparatively small affair into one of world-wide celebrity. The present head of the firm, Armand Mame, is the great-grandson of the founder.

ELEANOR LOUISA HERVEY (nee Montagu), novelist and poet, died at Worthing October 27, at the age of ninety-two. About the year 1851 she published "The Pathway of the Fawn" and a child's book entitled "The Juvenile Calendar, or, The Feast of Flowers," which was illustrated by Richard Doyle. Of other books for the young the two of which she thought most were "The Feasts of Camelot" and "The Rock Light," published about 1865. She also wrote "The Double Claim" and "Snooded Jessaline." She contributed verses to many periodicals, and in 1869 published a selection of them under the title "Our Legends and Lives." In 1866 she brought out in this country the poems of her husband T. K. Hervey, who was editor of the London Athenaeum from 1846 to 1853.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JOHN MORLEY is to visit the United States next year, coming to deliver an address at the opening of the Technical College, at Pittsburgh, in October, 1904. It is to be hoped that he will find it agreeable to make other public appearances in this country, which he has not visited for more than thirty years.

It seems that the London Athenaeum was not speaking "by the book" when it said it was able to state authoritatively "that no biography of Whistler had been authorized by his legal representatives, because Radford & Frankland write regarding the life of Whistler that their clients, "Mr. and Mrs. Pennell, were authorized by the late Mr. Whistler in his lifetime to write his life, and he and his relatives furnished them with a large amount of material for the purpose, and this life has been in preparation since 1900."

A MAN last week tried to shoot the Secretary of the Bank of England, who is no less a personage than Kenneth Grahame, the author of those two charming books, "The Golden Age" and "Dream Days." This incident, the New York Sun points out, "draws attention to the fact that now, as at other times, prominent English literary men follow some ordinary occupation. Austin Dobson retired from a government clerkship the other day. A. B. Walkley, the best dramatic critic in London is in the Post Office. These are only three out of many cases which could be mentioned. We have the greatest respect for the Governor of the Bank of England. But we are sure that he would be less missed than his clever and modest secretary."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE PHILOSOPHIC COMPANY, 500 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has just published the first number of The Wise Man, a monthly "periodical of occult science and wisdom simplified and applied to every day life." The magazine is edited by Leander Edmund Whipple and costs $1 a year, ten cents a number.

THE great success of "State Builders," recently issued by the New Hampshire Publishing Corporation, has led to a project for a new monthly magazine to be called Home and State Builders, the first number of which will be issued by this house in January. As the name of the magazine suggests, it will contain matters of interest to those concerned in building up the home and the state. The editor of the magazine will be George Franklyn Willey.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS (Copyright Office) has published a useful pamphlet on "Copyright in Canada and Newfoundland," prepared by Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights. The pamphlet contains rules and forms for copyright registration in Canada, together with the copyright laws of Canada, Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. (Bulletin No. 6, 126 p. 8°.)

DODD, MEAD & Co. have just received the first volume of the reprint of "The Term Catalogues, 1668-1709, with a number for Easter Term, 1711," a contemporary bibliography of English literature in the reign of Charles II., James II., William and Mary and Anne, edited from the very rare quarterly lists of new books and reprints, issued by the booksellers of London, by Professor Edward Arber. The first volume covers the period from 1668 to 1682; two other volumes will complete the work, containing in all nearly 1800 quarto pages. Professor Arber has supplied a title index, as well as a general index, glossary and notes. There will be two editions, a royal quarto at $140 for the set and a demy quarto at $70 for the set.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALLIANCE, O.—C. C. Alexander has opened a book and stationery store here.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Henneberry Co. has filed a petition in involuntary bankruptcy.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA.—W. A. Bush has been succeeded by W. E. Murphy.

EL PASO, TEXAS.—The International Book and Stationery Company, Inc., has succeeded to the business of Blakesley, Freeman & Fennell. The officers of the new company are president, Charles F. Wilken, formerly with the Strobel-Wilken Co. of New York; vice-president, Linus Blakesley; and secretary and treasurer, James G. Freeman. The board of directors include the officers of the company and Samuel Fennell and James Van Varick who was formerly in the real estate business in New York. It is the intention of the new company not only to build up and enlarge the present lines but also to enter the jobbing field.

ELKINS, W. VA.—James Paris has bought a half interest in the book and stationery store here.

EMERY, S. D.—W. H. Stark, bookseller, has been succeeded by John Fox & Son.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.—H. K. Roberts, bookseller, has closed out his business.

GRAHAM, VA.—A receiver has been appointed for the Graham Supply Co.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Charles M. Conlon, proprietor of the Catholic bookstore at 104 W. Twelfth Street, died of typhoid fever, October 22.

KIOWA, KAN.—J. Oldson has purchased the Post Office Book and News Store here.

Mt. Ayr, IA.—O. K. Ingram is again in possession of the bookstore which he sold a short time ago to L. T. Armstrong.

NEW YORK CITY.—The sheriff has received two executions, aggregating $2555, against the Harvard Text Book Corporation, at Sixth Avenue and Forty-second Street, in favor of Wm. A. Moll, for $1430, and the Foster Debevoise Company, $1125, both for advertising. The company was incorporated on July 20 last with a capital stock of $6000. C. H. Prevost was president, and two of the officers, it was said, were formerly employees of John Mulholland, the money lender.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Norman W. Henley Publishing Company has been incorporated by N. W. Henley, M. C. Henley and Mary Henson, all of New York City. Capital reported as $50,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—James Kelly, bookseller and importer, has removed to 27 East Twenty-second Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—S. G. Rains Co., dealers in rare books, have removed to 186 Fifth Avenue, at the corner of Twenty-third Street, in the quarters formerly occupied as a branch office of the New York Herald.

NEW YORK CITY.—Mrs. Anne N. Van Oost, publisher of the Art Amateur at 225 Fourth Avenue, filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities $24,020, of which $16,220 are secured, and nominal assets $13,437. Among the creditors is Montague Marks, $14,000 secured by chattel mortgage. Mrs. Oost bought the Art Amateur in July, 1897, from Marks, who started it in 1879. She had been employed by him as financial manager.

OGDEN, UTAH.—A. D. F. Reynolds's store is in the hands of the mortgagee.

OSWEGO, N. Y.—Parmelee & Lyon have dissolved partnership. Mr. Lyon retires and Mr. Parmelee continues the business.

PLATTSMOUTH, NEB.—A. C. Helps, bookseller, has been succeeded by Manzy & Murphy.

ROME, GA.—R. V. Mitchell & Co., booksellers, have closed out.

WEST UNION, IA.—Schneider & Green have bought the book and stationery business of Fred W. White.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FIRE on the evening of November 25 in a Fetter Lane bookbindery destroyed the 1904 edition of "Who's Who" in England.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have in press an abridged edition of Campe's "Robinson der Jüngere," with notes and a vocabulary.

The dinner committee of the Stationers' Board of Trade, of New York, has decided to hold the annual banquet on Wednesday evening, January 27, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

LEMCKE & BUECHNER will shortly add to their Monographs on Artists a volume on Donatello one of the master sculptors of the world. The volume will have 140 illustrations.

THE WILLIAM J. C. DULANY COMPANY, of Baltimore, Md., entertained at a theatre party on the evening of the 3d inst. the Association of School Commissioners of Maryland which held its convention this week.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just published Mark Twain's "The Innocents Abroad," "Following the Equator," and "The Gilded Age," in new editions, uniform with their red-and-gold edition of Mark Twain's works.

JOHN LANE has in preparation a biography of Zola by Ernest Vizetelly, who was intimate with the French novelist for many years, and who in his book deals with Zola's home life as well as with his literary career.

W. H. GOCHER, Hartford, Conn., has just published the second volume of "Tales of the Turf," which will be completed in three volumes. The volume just ready contains nineteen stories of racing and horse trading, illustrated by Frank Whitney.

DODGE & METCALF, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, have just ready "Old Heidelberg," by Wilhelm Meyer-Förster, translated from the German by Max Chapelle. The play taken from this book has enjoyed great popularity in German and English here as well as abroad.

J. T. DOONAN & Co., Atlanta, Ga., are publishing a reprint of Thomas U. P. Charlton's "Life of Major-General James Jackson," the original of which was published by George F. Randolph, Augusta, Ga., in 1809. The reprint contains new matter relating to the subject.

THE authorities having apparently made a success of the shop in Paris for the sale of Sevres porcelain, an agitation is now on foot for the establishment of a similar depot for the Imprimerie Nationale. It is pointed out that a number of official works produced at a great cost during and in connection with the Exposition of 1900 have resulted in a heavy loss to the State, which might have been avoided or amended had the Imprimerie Nationale a shop for the sale to the general public of its surplus stock.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD & Co., Philadelphia, have in preparation an important book entitled "Cellulose, Cellulose Products, and Rubber Substitutes," by Dr. Josef Bersch. Translated from the German, by William T. Brannt. The work which will be fully illustrated treats of the preparation of cellulose, parchment-cellulose, the methods of obtaining sugar, alcohol and oxalic acid from wood-cellulose, the production of nitro-cellulose and cellulose-ester, and the manufacture of artificial silk, viscose, celluloid, rubber substitutes, oil-rubber, etc.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready in two volumes "The Story of a Soldier's Life," by Field-Marshal Viscount Wolseley. This soldier's life story, told by himself, is not only a work of much historic value, but a stirring tale as well, a piece of martial autobiography of very genuine interest. Lord Wolseley distinguished himself during the Great Mutiny leading the advance in Colin Campbell's relief of Lucknow; he stormed the Taku forts in the Chinese war of 1860; he put down the Riel Rebellion after a march of 300 miles through the Canadian wilderness, and he conducted the Ashantee War.

FISCHER'S FOREIGN LETTERS, INC., a new publishing concern with headquarters in the Vanderbilt Building, at Beekman and Nassau Streets, New York City, have just published "Private Lives of William II. and His Consort," and "Secret History of the Court of Berlin," prepared from the papers and diaries, extending over a period from June, 1888 to the Spring of 1898, of Ursula, Countess von Eppinghoven, dame du Palais to her Majesty, the Empress-Queen, by Henry W.

Fischer. There will be two editions—one for subscribers, limited to 100 copies, on specially made paper, and a limited library edition.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation a religious novel dealing with a supposed modern antichrist, who, working through a distinguished attaché of the British Museum, succeeds in bringing confusion to the Christian faith of the day. The author is said to be a rising Scottish writer, Guy Thorne. His novel will be called "When It Was Dark—the Story of a Great Conspiracy." Readers of his manuscript are divided as to whether he writes symbolically or whether his aim is simply to present an imaginative tale. They have also under way, in connection with William Heinemann, a new edition of Whistler's "Gentle Art of Making Enemies," printed from new plates.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. announce a change in the order of publication of the definitive edition of the work of John Ruskin, edited by E. T. Cook and Alexander Wedderburn. The volumes had been presented in the regular order up to volume iv., then following the order in which the works were written. Volume viii. has just appeared, for the reason that after the first two parts of "Modern Painters" Ruskin wrote "The Seven Lamps of Architecture," which appears in volume viii. Volumes v. to vii., which contain the original volumes iii., iv., and v. of "Modern Painters," will not appear until after the publication of volume xi. in the new edition; then the order will again become regular as well as chronological.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS has just ready a new volume in the Oxford Miniature Poets series, namely the poems of Keats, and Shakespeare's works divided into three volumes, the "Comedies," the "Histories, Poems and Sonnets," and the "Tragedies," each obtainable separately. These little books are printed in clear type on Oxford India paper, and each contains a portrait. The Press will shortly bring out Dr. E. Moore's third series of "Studies in Dante," consisting of miscellaneous essays that deal with the astronomy and geography of Dante, the date assumed by Dante for the vision of the Divina Commedia, symbolism and prophecy in the last six cantos of the Purgatorio, the genuineness of the dedicatory epistle to Can Grande, etc.

THE ROBERT CLARKE COMPANY has published Joseph Hartwell Barrett's work on Lincoln, entitled "Abraham Lincoln and His Presidency." The author was a public man, familiar with the political questions of the day, in the years when Lincoln rose to national prominence. He was the political editor of The Cincinnati Gazette from 1857 to 1861, a delegate to the Republican National Convention of 1860 and Ohio's member on the platform committee. Immediately after the nomination he visited Springfield to obtain material for a campaign life of the candidate. The book published in the following June was revised for the campaign of 1864, and later, after Lincoln's death, a third edition was published. The present volume is a new work. Unpublished letters of Lincoln, Chase and others are contributed.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just published a volume entitled "The à Becketts of Punch, memoirs of father and sons," by Arthur William à Beckett. The father, Gilbert Abbott à Beckett, founded Figaro in 1830. When Punch was started the elder à Beckett became one of its prominent contributors—as were his sons after him. The author of the volume was for twenty-eight years on the staff of Punch. The three à Becketts, in the course of their careers, came in touch with most of the literary men of the day, and the book abounds in references to Thackeray, Dickens, Douglas Jerrold, Henry Mayhew and others. They have also just ready "The Home Mechanic," by John Wright, a volume which will be helpful to householders in making most of the common repairs required in their houses. The volume is very fully illustrated.

ALBERT BRANDT, Trenton, N. J., announces for publication in the present fortnight, the first volume (the second and concluding volume being in preparation for later publication) of "Elegies: Ancient and Modern, with an Introductory Study of the History of Elegiac Poetry from the Earliest Days down to the Present Time," by Mary Lloyd, said to be the only anthology of this noble form of verse in the English language. Mr. Brandt also announces for immediate issue "How England Averted a Revolution of Force," by B. O. Flower, editor of The Arena. The latter work is to be an analysis of the social agitation which forced England to the verge of revolution in the year 1848, when the continent of Europe seemed to blaze with revolution, together with a study of the means by which the British kingdom purchased her immunity and the application of the lessons taught to present-day conditions in America.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have published another of Dr. A. T. Schofield's interesting books, "The Force of Mind." This, like the author's previous works, "The Unconscious Mind," "Springs of Character," and "Nerves in Disorder," is written with scientific accuracy, and is full of practical and suggestive material for physicians and laymen. At the same time it is written in such an easy and charming style that any thoughtful person will find it full of interest, stimulus, and fascination. They will publish early in the next year an American edition of "Electro-Diagnosis and Electro-Therapeutics," a handy guide-book on the subject for medical students and practitioners, by Dr. Toby Cohn, of Berlin. The present translation into English has been edited by Francis A. Scratchley, M.D., Chief of Clinics Department of Neurology and Instructor in Electro-Diagnosis and Electro-Therapeutics in the University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College of New York.

W. A. WILDE & Co. have just ready a pre-exposition volume upon the St. Louis fair, entitled "Out of a Fleur-de-Lis—the History and Romance of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition," by Claude H. Wetmore. This volume is profusely illustrated with pictures of the grounds and buildings, portraits of the most prominent personages connected with the fair and facsimile of the Louisiana Purchase treaty. It also contains an official map of the exposition grounds. The volume bears the official endorsement of the World's Fair Company. They have also just brought out "With Flintlock and Fife," by Rev. Everett T. Tomlinson, a timely volume, for early in September the Society of Colonial Wars, after years of endeavor to subscribe the money needed, dedicated a beautiful monument near the head of Lake George in the State Park, to the memory of those who fell at the Battle of Lake George in 1755. Dr. Tomlinson has taken as the basis of this story the very subject to which this monument was dedicated.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, have in preparation a series of biographies which will include life histories of the men who figured most prominently in the great contest between the North and South, taking hold of the sectional issue when it first appeared and following it until it faded out of American politics. The volumes will be anecdotal in character, and it is proposed that all shall be the work of a younger generation of writers, thereby gaining the perspective of a half century and freedom from suspicion of war time prejudice. The secession of the Southern States will be considered as a national and historical event, and each phase of the contest will be represented fittingly in biographies of the men who prepared the way for, established, and resisted the establishment of the Confederacy, and brought the states with the negro problem back into the Union again. The biographies of the Southern leaders will be written by Southern men. Volumes will be devoted to Calhoun, Webster, Clay, Lincoln, Grant, Robert E. Lee, Jefferson Davis, Alexander H. Stephens, Robert Toombs, "Stonewall" Jackson, W. T. Sherman, William Lloyd Garrison, Jay Cooke, the Financier, and many others who played their parts in the enactment of the great national drama. The series will be edited by Ellis P. Oberholtzer, Ph.D., author of "Robert Morris: Patriot and Financier."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "The Art of James McNeil Whistler," by T. R. Way and G. R. Dennis, illustrated with fifty-two reproductions of Whistler's most representative work; "Two Centuries of Costume in America," a richly illustrated two-volume work on a singularly neglected subject, by Mrs. Alice Morse Earle; "History of American Sculpture," by Lorado Taft, the first of a series edited by Professor J. C. Van Dyke on the history of American art, which is a careful study of the whole course of American sculpture from its beginnings to the unveiling of the Sherman monument last spring; also, "The New Testament in the Christian Church," by Professor Edward C. Moore of Harvard, a supplement to "The Old Testament in the Jewish Church," the idea being carried forward and applied to the new dispensation; also, Francis Henry Skrine's book on "The Expansion of Russia, 1815-1900," a new volume in the Cambridge Historical Series, the aim of which is to sketch the history of modern Europe from about the end of the fifteenth century down to the present time. At the time of his death the late Sir Walter Besant was engaged on what he called his magnum opus, "The Survey of London." The first installment, "London in the Eighteenth Century," was published last year, and The Macmillan Company announce that the second installment, "London in the Time of the Stuarts," is almost ready for publication.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week "Recollections and Impressions of James McNeill Whistler," by Arthur Jerome Eddy, whose book "Delight, the Soul of Art," published about a year ago voiced the artistic beliefs of its writer. The Whistler book represents a collection of many years, and the reminiscences it contains are mostly personal. Many of the anecdotes are from the artist's own lips. Mr. Eddy's own views of Whistler's art were formed while watching the painter at work. The volume is illustrated with twelve reproductions representing some of the most distinguished specimens of Whistler's work. The frontispiece is Rajon's portrait of Whistler himself. They offer as their special holiday book "Through the Gates of Old Romance," by W. Jay Mills, whose book covers the early life of the colonies. It is a clever commingling of ghost stories and love stories together with stories of adventure, and all are told with a freshness and vigor which make them peculiarly readable. The drawings are by John Rae, who so charmingly illustrated "Historic Houses of New Jersey." They have also just ready, in their series of True Histories, "The True History of the Civil War," by Guy Carleton Lee, lecturer at Johns Hopkins University, who aims to give a deliberate and impartial view of the causes that led up to the war between the States, and of the conspicuous events and determining factors in the struggle itself. The volume contains a number of reproductions of maps and documents and twenty-four illustrations. They have also just ready a second edition of the widely-known work by General James Longstreet, "From Manassas to Appomattox," which has been thoroughly revised by the author who was directly concerned in this campaign, illustrated with portraits and colored maps made specially for this work; "The Life of Horace Binney," one of the most distinguished of Philadelphians, by Charles C. Binney, with portraits; the third edition of Augustus H. Gill's "Short Handbook of Oil Analysis;" also a volume on "Blood Pressure in Surgery," by Dr. George W. Crile.

The Moth Book

By Dr. W. J. HOLLAND

(Author of "The Butterfly Book")

Here is the book on moths for all time, on which Dr. Holland has been at work for many years.

It not only enables a beginner to identify 1500 North American species, but covers their economic importance, silk culture, the literary side of the subject, and so on.

The moths are far more interesting and beautiful than the butterflies, and the magnificent Plates illustrating the work are a museum in themselves. Many species are either useful or destructive; the book contains directions for the best manner in which to combat the ravages of the latter class, and is of practical importance to all who are concerned in agricultural pursuits.

As a present to young people who are interested in studying nature, and in forming collections in natural history, the volume is one of the choicest which could be selected. It contains full directions for the amateur naturalist, which, coming from the highest authority in America upon the subject, cannot but prove of great value and helpfulness.

In view of the splendid manner in which it is illustrated, and the vast amount of research and labor involved in its preparation, it is a marvel of cheapness.

CONTENTS

I. THE LIFE-HISTORY AND ANATOMY OF MOTHS.

How to distinguish a moth from a butterfly. The Eggs of Moths: Caterpillars: Structure, Form, Color, Habits, etc.; The Pupa of Moths: Form, Covering, etc; Anatomy of Moths: Head, Thorax, Abdomen, Legs, Wings.

II. THE CAPTURE, PREPARATION AND PRESERVATION OF SPECIMENS.

MOST IMPORTANT CRITICISM

"A romance galloping splendidly on its headlong way, and looking back now and again to smile gayly and wink at the reader and to jeer at itself, that's 'The O'Ruddy.' (Stokes. $1.50.)

"To tell the truth, there is hardly a dull page in the book, whole dozens that sweep you along breathless, and many where, if you are a natural man, you must stop and emit shrill notes of glee. . . .

"The late Mr. Crane and the present Mr. Barr between them have made what seems to us the gallantest story of its kind that has seen the light this long time."

N. Y. Times' Saturday Review.

Important New Sociological Work

An Examination of Society

FROM THE STANDPOINT OF EVOLUTION

By LOUIS WALLIS

After preliminary publication in The American Journal of Sociology (University of Chicago Press), this work is issued in expanded form under the above title. Taking the general standpoint of the doctrine of evolution, the book traces up the great process of social development in the light of a new conception. Its main thesis has been pronounced an "eye opener," and has been accepted by leading American sociologists. It was at first published in condensed, abstract form. It now appears in more concrete popular shape, setting the doctrine of cleavage-capitalization more fully in the light of universal history. CONTENTS: Preliminary Survey; The Primitive Struggle for Existence; Prehistoric Beginnings; Ancient Oriental Civilization; Classic Civilization; Mediæval and Modern Civilization. The same great regulative principles are shown to be at work, from the pre-stone age down to the present era. In connection with the survey of the ancient world, there is given a detailed exhibit of the vital relation of the higher Biblical criticism to the social problem. It is shown that the higher criticism of Bible history is merely a special application of the same scientific principles that have been so successfully applied to all history. The development of Judaism and Christianity out of an ancient Semitic heathenism is outlined at length as a part of the great process of development which the race is undergoing. Public Opinion: "Mr. Wallis has constructed an interesting and undoubtedly useful work for the student of human society. His chapter on Oriental Civilization is particularly valuable and is the most careful and reasonable discussion of the origin and significance of Hebrew society that we have seen." The Midland Methodist: "The work is an exhaustive study of the development of society and indicates accurate scholarship, vast research and careful analysis and deductions. The book in every way is worthy a place in every student's library." Librarians who aim to build up their sociology department should order this book. Cloth, 325 pp. (large), $1.75, net. Sent prepaid on receipt of price.

OLD HEIDELBERG

Translated from the German of Wilhelm Meyer-Forster

By MAX CHAPELLE

The book from which Richard Mansfield's play of the same name is taken.

Both the book and the play have had great popularity in Germany, making not only a hit, but an artistic triumph.

The success of the play both in this country and London is already assured, which fore-shadows a large sale for the book, now first translated into English.

The translator, himself a German University student, has transplanted the atmosphere which prevades the book in a most remarkable manner.

A Word to the Bookseller

NOTE—It isn't our business to teach you your business. But we may be able to give you some pointers on selling our books. From time to time we shall make the attempt on this page.

☐ Possibly you know. But we will risk that and bring again to your attention the fact that

The Long Night

By STANLEY J. WEYMAN

16 Illustrations. $1.50

has been on the list of the six best selling books in New York for about six weeks—practically since the day of its publication. Somehow or other this indicates, to us at least, that it is one of the best if not the very best romance of the season.

☐ It has come to that stage of popularity where its success is due to word-of-mouth advertising. People are saying, "Have you read Weyman's last book, 'The Long Night'?" If not, you ought to."

☐ Now, when a book comes to that place, it is pretty sure to be recognized as a safe kind of a book for a Christmas present for anybody, and so it seems to us that during the holiday season there will be more call than ever for this most stirring story of war and witchcraft in old Geneva. It is surely (and now we quote the unanimous verdict of the critics and not ourselves) "Weyman at his best."

☐ We are lucky in having another book of the same stripe,

BARLASCH OF THE GUARD

By HENRY SETON MERRIMAN

8 Illustrations. $1.50

It was published a little more than a month ago and has kept company in the best selling list with "The Long Night" since the day it came out. Surely anyone who has ever read any books of Merriman's will want to read this, his last one.

☐ And there is further

THE ADVENTURES OF GERARD

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Illustrated. $1.50

which is also in the six best selling class. These dashing stories of an egotistical brigadier's marvelous exploits following the army of Napoleon are by Conan Doyle, and that of course makes them especially good for the holiday trade. Everyone knows he is safe in giving a Doyle book.

☐ These three books have had most emphatically the stamp of public approval, and you cannot go wrong in recommending them to your customers either for their own use or for gifts to their friends.

☐ P. S.—Henry Harland's Italian romance, "My Friend Prospero," is in active preparation for publication early in January.
